GENESIS TIPS

How to win the Game

Winning involves reducing your opponent's immortal resource to 0. Here are some general strategies and tips to increase your chances of winning:

Build a Strong Deck

Construct a well-balanced deck with a mix of characters, artifacts, secrets, and weapons. Consider the synergy between cards and create a deck that fits your preferred playstyle. Each immortal has unique abilities to complement their decks.

Understand Your Opponent

Knowing what other players are likely to play and the cards available to them allows you to anticipate and counter their moves.

Earth Curve

Aim for a balanced Earth curve in your deck, including cards of various Earth costs. This ensures that you have plays in the early, mid, and late game.

Board Control

Controlling the board is crucial. Use characters, artifacts and other cards to establish dominance in play, removing opponent threats and maintaining your own presence keeps you in control.

Card Advantage

Strive for card advantage by drawing more cards than your opponent. This can be achieved through efficient card draw mechanics and making favorable trades. Be careful not to exceed 9 cards in hand, or they are removed from play.

Immortal Power Usage

Use your immortal power strategically. Sometimes it's better to control the board, and other times it's more effective to pressure your opponent's characters or resource directly.

Know Your Opponent's Deck

Pay attention to the cards your opponent plays to get a sense of their deck. This knowledge helps you anticipate their moves and plan your strategy accordingly.

Adapt to the Situation

Be flexible and adapt to the changing dynamics of the game. Sometimes it's better to play defensively, while other times you need to go on the offensive.

Save Removals for Threats

Save your removal artifacts and effects for high-value targets. Prioritize removing dangerous characters or neutralizing powerful combos.

Manage Resources

Be mindful of your resources, including Karma and cards. Don't overcommit to the board, and be aware of potential board clears your opponent might have. Remember that your immortal resource is also a valuable tool to control the flow of the game.

Learn from Mistakes

Analyze your games, especially losses, to identify areas of improvement. Learning from mistakes is key to becoming a better player. Additionally, if you have suggestions to improve the play and quality of the game, please contact us so we too can learn, grow and improve.

Consider Your Win Condition

Understand your deck's win condition. Some decks aim to control the board and win in the late game, while others focus on aggressive early game strategies. Play to your deck's strengths and learn your opponent’s weaknesses.

Remember that the game involves an element of luck, randomness and math due to card draws and other factors, so there's no guaranteed strategy. Improving your skills, understanding the game's mechanics, and adapting to different situations will contribute to your overall success. Just like the game of life!
